Dear John,

This letter is in regards to a serious breach of security for all Sales and Services Associates who work with the Point of Sale (POS) software. It has just come to the union's attention that while in "standby mode" a clerk could open a cash drawer without a password.

The union is requesting when the USPS knew of this flaw and when it will be corrected. In the interim, we are advising locals to file class action grievances to recover any shortages of employees. The APWU reserves the right to file a national dispute on this matter.

Rob Strunk, Assistant Director
Clerk Division
